

John Gimbel, University of Alaska Fairbanks

Old and New Results in Chromatic Theory

I would like to discuss some of my favorite problems that result from modifying the traditional notion of a coloring. In particular, I would like to focus on colorings where each color class induces a graph with a bound on the maximum degree and colorings where each color class induces graphs with a bound on the component size.